I can't stand my mom anymore! She always buys clothes whenever she wants. What's more, she throws away clothes when she doesn't like them instead of giving them away or recycling them. I've heard that clothing is manufactured at the cost of our precious planet. Could you please share with me some examples with me, so that I can tell my mom? Thanks a lot!
Lyn1314	Posted 2 January 13:30
Tell her "The fewer leather products that are made, the better our planet will be." When leather are made from animal skin, a variety of minerals and chemicals are added in the process. They could cause negative impacts on our environment.
Kitten	Posted 2 January 16:59
Whether she is an animal lover or not, stop her from buying clothes that are made from animal fur. This can prevent animals from being abused or killed. Animals like foxes and seals shouldn't be treated that way, which is just to satisfy humans' desire to be fashionable.
Henry	Posted 2 January 18:24
You can search for more information about "ethical fashion" or "sustainable fashion" online. You might give your mom some new ideas about fashion and the environment.
Seaturtle	Posted 2 January 19:36
Do you know that plastic clothing is harmful to our environment? Polyester, the material which is often found in such clothing, shreds microfiber, a type of artificial fiber, when plastic clothing is washed. According to studies, microfiber can seriously pollute oceans and harm the marine life. For that reason, if it is not necessary, please stop buying plastic clothing.

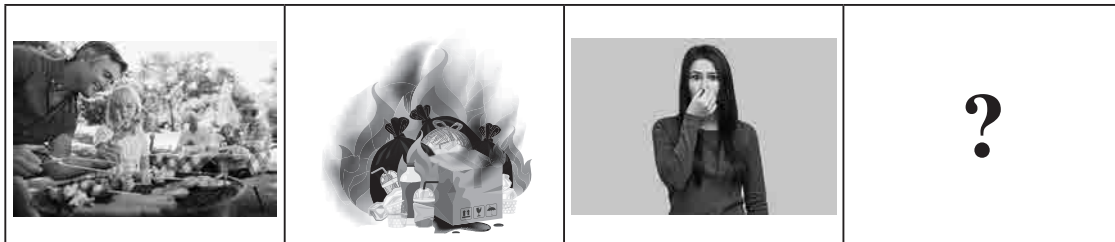

Rockstone	Posted 3 January 12:11
I can understand how you feel because my sister is just like your mom. I think both of them should learn more about the real cost of fast fashion.
Vicky	Posted 3 January 13:48
Please let her know that even producing a single cotton shirt requires up to 700 gallons of water. If she doesn't need it, ask her please not to buy it, so that her money and our water can be saved.
